320 students registered for the N.S.S. during the year under review. A large number of our students attended the orientation programmes organized by the Delhi School of Social Work, All India Institute of Medical Sciences and the University College of Medical Sciences Under the general N.S.S. project of Basic Community Health and Medicine programme, our students participated in the immunization programme in different resettlement colonies in collaboration with the Medical Institute. They also worked for orphans and the mentally retarded children at Kasturba Niketan, (Lajpat Nagar) and for the blind children in the Blind Schools located in South Delhi and Panchkuin Road. They also organized a blood donation camp for the Red Cross and helped the UNICEF and the Blind School in their fund raising activities. In the way of Self-help, the N.S.S. Volunteers rendered assistance to the College Library staff from time to time in maintaining cleanliness and discipline in the Library and in repairing the damaged books.

Besides, a number of lectures were also organized by the N.S.S. for the entire student body of the College. The ones related to 'Purposeful Utilization of Leisure Time' and 'Pre-marital Counselling' were the most well attended. The Gargi College N.S.S. Miss Sangeeta Gopal of our College was declared the best participant in a programme for child development sponsored by the Jaycee's Group in collaboration with UNICEF. Miss Suman Bala, Miss Rachna Chaturvedi and Miss Vandana Chaudhri deserve special mention for the work done at various relief camps set up after the Delhi riots. I am happy to add that some of our teachers Dr. (Miss) S. Bhanumati, Dr. (Miss) Vijaya Ramaswamy, Miss Vishlakshi Menon and Miss Pragati Mahapatra also actively participated in the welfare work for the blind under the auspices of the N.S.S. Unit of Gargi College.

The report on the extra-curricular activities will be presented shortly by the President of the Student's Union, Miss Rakeshwari Arora. I wish to place on record my appreciation for the work done by Dr. (Mrs.) Uma Jain, Dr. (Miss) Sanjukta Banerji and Mrs. Vidyabati Das Arora as staff Advisors to the Student's Union.

3065 books were added to the library during the year bringing the total number of volumes in the library to 39117 (35981 in main and gift collection, 1166 in the text books and 1970 in the Book Bank). Besides the annual recurring grant of Rs. 21,500/-, we also received from the UGC a non-recurring grant of Rs. 60,000/- for the library under the Sixth Five Year Plan. Another non-recurring grant of Rs. 15,000/- was received for the new courses introduced in the College during the year under review. We also received a grant of Rs. 84,115/- for the purchase of a Xerox reprographic machine. The machine will be installed in the library very soon. I sincerely hope, both students and teachers will make full use of the new facility offered.

During the year 1974-85 Gargi College implemented, as a new venture four projects under the Adult and Continuing Education Scheme of Delhi University. Namely, Adult Literacy, Continuing Education, Environmental Awareness, Legal Literacy and Population Awareness. Our students ran three Centres for Adult Education in Saket, Badarpur and Palam Gaon. A regular course in shorthand typing and Secretarial practice was offered by the college in the way of Continuing Education. Successful candidates will be awarded Certificates in July. Under the Population Awareness project, a plan has been made to survey certain slum areas of the city to study and analyse the problems of stress on women, particularly in regard to the nature of distribution of food within the family. A number of lectures were arranged under the Environmental Awareness and Legal Literacy programmes including some on the 'Matrimonial Rights of Women'. May I congratulate Mrs. B. Dhar for co-ordinating the aforesaid activities successfully.

Two new courses were introduced in the current academic session, i.e. Analytical Methods in Chemistry and Biochemistry and Entrepreneurship and small Business. 19 students enrolled for the first and 37 for the second. Although there is a general cry for the introduction of job oriented courses in the University curriculum, one noticed that the response of the students to these new courses was neither spontaneous nor enthusiastic. The students had to be persuaded and convinced of their utility to make them opt for it. This is an indication of how deeply entrenched are the conventional degree programmes and how fearful an average student is of making new choices. Under the given system of examinations in which the questions asked tend to be repetative and under the prevalent system of instruction which is tightly geared to examinations, the students are bound to favour the conventional courses. They feel secure with the familiar and the well trodden path.

While we welcome the new courses for which we have received the required grants from the UGC, we feel perturbed about the non-clearance from the UGC of the longstanding and repeated recommendations made by the University for introduction in this college, of M.A. courses in Hindi, History and Sanskrit; and honours courses in Economics, Psychology, Mathematics and Chemistry. Perhaps this is a reflection of the UGC policy not to make new investments in the conventional courses. Needless to state, fundamental disciplines such as these are of great significance in University education. Their importance has to be maintained in the newer colleges as well. No doubt, vocational education is an urgent need in our national context. No doubt, the national priorities must determine the nature of the allocation of government funds. Nevertheless, the character of our universities as places of higher learning has to be retained. Perhaps the way out of the dilemma we face, lies in making university education a highly selective affair in other words, by raising the norms and standards for entry into colleges. This should be possible at some point of time if the policy declared by the government of delinking jobs from degrees is implemented and its implementation is matched a speedy furtherance of vocational training and education.

Talking of financial constraints, the college still awaits the necessary grants from the UGC for the completion of unfinished development works on the campus-such as the procurement of a permanent electric connection, having a permanent sewage system and the proper paving of the frontage of the college building etc. I am happy to report, however, about the timely assistance given by the UGC and the Delhi Administration to enable us to meet an unforeseen expenditure this year. Our Science Laboratories which had got damaged because of certain initial defects in construction needed immediate repairs. We received a grant of Rs. 1,41,600 (Rs. 70,800/- from the UGC and an equivalent amount from the Delhi Administration) to meet the cost of the repair work which has been entrusted to the C.P.W.D.

May I convey my thanks to both the academic and non-academic staff for their help and co-operation. I am grateful to all such members of the Faculty who, alongside their teaching obligations, gave much of their time to serve institutional interest at large. My appreciation of the work done by the office bearers of the Student's Union, namely Miss Rakeshwari Arora (President); Miss Vinita Sood (Vice-President); Miss Vandana Bagga (Secretary); and Miss Anjali Kwatara (Treasurer).

In the end, I wish to convey my sincere thanks to the Governing Body of the College. I am grateful to Justice A.N. Grover (Chairman), Shri Yogeshwar Dayal (Treasurer), and all other members of the Governing Body for their valuable guidance and assistance.
